INDIANS WORTHY
W.V.U. OPPONENT

Tomorrow's Game at Morgantown Promises to be Very Interesting.

MORGANTOWN, October 12.—It is with real fear that West Virginia University football coaches will send their eleven into the struggle with the Carlisle Indian team here tomorrow afternoon. Not that there is any fear of the weakness of the West Virginia team, but because it is generally felt that the Indians have a team that ranks with the best in the country and that it will be another of those nip-and-tuck battles such as have just been experienced with Pittsburg and the Navy.

Whether or not West Virginia team is ready and able to go through another such struggle as those two with only a week of intermission is questionable. When West Virginians schedule was arranged it was felt that the Indians would not provide any serious obstacle and that, in fact, the Indian game coming between the Navy and Dartmouth would provide an opportunity for a let-down in the strenuous work for the Varsity men, and that after the game was made secure some of the Reserve team men who have been so anxious to get into Varsity games could be given their chance.

But when the season opened and Carlisle started trimming her opponents right and left it was soon made clear that there was fully as much cause for preparation for the game with the Redskins as there had been for Pitt or the Navy if West Virginians record was out to suffer another blot. Hence this week has been another one of serious grind and there has been no letup in the work. The result is that several of the men, notably Harriek, Merideth, Rodgers, and Heavner are not likely to last through the game if it is as strenuous as those with Pitt and the Navy.

The indications are that another crowd fully as large as that which assembled here for the Pitt game last Saturday a week ago will turn out here tomorrow. The Indians are a great attraction not only because of their strength on the gridiron but because of the fact that they are the most picturesque team on the gridiron.

SLIGHT INCREASE IN COUNTY SHEEP

Mannington Far Ahead of All Districts—Has 3,098.

Wool prices soaring at the highest point ever known in the history of the country have done much to encourage the farmers of Marion county to raise more sheep than usual. There is an increase of 207 sheep over the number that were pastured last year, the figures being 4,958 this year against 4,751 last year. The assessment on the sheep this year is $23,460 against $17,638 last year.

While the sheep raising industry has not been able to touch the zenith that was established years ago when the farmer made his money that way instead of collecting royalties for gas, coal and oil, it is being revived and it is a step in the right direction. One of the most noticeable things about the assessment of the sheep this year is the big raise. For the 207 increase of sheep there is an increased valuation of $5,822. The average assessment of each of the 4,958 sheep this year will run about $5.

Mannington district leads all the county for sheep as it is possessed of splendid grazing land. Mannington district managed to hold its own despite the high feed prices and then gain 496 sheep over last year's number. Winslow dropped fifty-six behind its total for last year and Lincoln also has 163 less than it had last year. Paw Paw managed to gain seventeen. Grant lacks twenty-one to equal the number that it had last year.

The present wool prices are 70 cents a pound and according to a local wool merchant the average sheep yields five pounds of wool on a shearing. Some of course will run more, but that is a right fair average.

The sheep in the county are distributed among the several districts and towns as follows: Fairmont district, 9; city of Fairmont, 44; city of Fairmont in Union district, 6; Grant, 45; Lincoln, 430; Mannington, 3,098; Mannington city, 6; Paw Paw, 402; Fairview, 16; Union, 133; Winslow, 766; total, 4,958.

The assessment for sheep in these districts and towns will run as follows: Fairmont, $75; city of Fairmont, $440; city of Fairmont in Union district, $30;

Grant, $235; Lincoln, $2,560; Mannington, $13,665; Mannington city, $36; Paw Paw, $1,850; Fairview, $100; Union, $650; Winslow, $3,830; total, $23,460.
